Modern physics is the post-Newtonian conception of physics. It implies that classical descriptions of phenomena are lacking, and that an accurate, "modern", description of nature requires theories to incorporate elements of quantum mechanics or Einsteinian relativity, or both. In general, the term is used to refer to any branch of physics either developed in the early 20th century and onwards ...

Physics became a separate science when early modern Europeans used experimental and quantitative methods to discover what are now considered to be the laws of physics. [page needed] Major developments in this period include the replacement of the geocentric model of the solar system with the heliocentric Copernican model, the laws governing the motion of planetary bodies determined by Johannes ...

These operators will "operate" on a wave function,  $\Psi$ , which is assumed to exist, and which is assumed to contain all that is knowable about the quantum mechanical system. We would then solve the resulting equation to get the particulars. And so, in this example, we can write the substitutions into the classical expression for total energy.
